LOCATIONS IN THE ALAMOSA AREA
OF MISCELLANEOUS UNNAMED, ABANDONED CEMETERIES

1. Adams State College campus:

Location

Section 4, Township 37 North, Range 10
East, N.M.P.M., City of Alamosa, Alamosa
County, Colorado.

In 1910, prior to the building of Richardson Hall at Adams State Normal School, a small cemetery was located between today's Edgemont and Richardson Avenues. The site would have been open country at that time. Today the college's art building is located at the site of the cemetery. No further information is available.

2. North end of Stadium Drive:

Location

Section 4, Township 37 North, Range 10 East,
N.M.P.M., City of Alamosa, Alamosa County,
Colorado.

On the east side of the north end of today's Stadium Drive -- a small cemetery was located near the bank of the Rio Grande. Possibly a family cemetery, it was abandoned in the early 1900s when the area was open country. No evidence remains.

3. East of the Rio Grande:

Location

Section 11, Township 37 North, Range 10 East,
N.M.P.M., east of Alamosa in Alamosa County,
Colorado.

A cemetery predating the present Alamosa City Cemetery, existed east of Alamosa between Emperius Road and Rodeo Lane and between U. S. 160 and the railroad tracks. It is believed that this cemetery was abandoned about 1935. Records indicate that some, if not all marked graves, were moved to the city cemetery. Dates on some markers in the city cemetery predate the establishment of the city cemetery and may be those moved from east of the river. Also, some city records show reburials but not where the graves originally were located.

3. East of Rio Grande

It is said that many influenza victims were buried at the site east of the river. Because of the high death rate, it was impossible to hold funeral services for most of the victims, and bodies were simply placed in a large trench, dug for this purpose, and were covered.

No evidence of this cemetery remains.

4. Henry Bachus Homestead

Location

Section 30, Township 38 North, Range 10
East, N.M.P.M., in Alamosa County, Colorado.
(West of Alamosa, north of U.S. 160 at South Road 107)

A family cemetery was located on the Henry Bachus Homestead in the vicinity of a "Five-Mile Dam". Those buried here were members of the Bachus family. These graves still located on the property when Earl Nichols, Alamosa Parks and Cemetery Superintendent, was a child. (Nichols is a member of this family.) Evidence of the old house and barn exist, but no graves can be found today.

Henry Bachus, whose given name was "Heinrich," was a Civil War veteran stationed at Fort Garland in the 1860s. He was one of several German-born soldiers who filed for homesteads in the San Luis Valley after being discharged.

ALAMOSA SPANISH CEMETERY
(also known as Medina Memorial Gardens and Medina Cemetery)

LOCATION

Section 9, Township 37 North, Range 10 East,
N.M.P.M., in Alamosa County, Colorado.
(Southwest of Alamosa, one mile west of U. S.
Highway 285 on Eight Mile Road South.)

RECORDS

The property was deeded on September 13, 1913. A warranty deed was executed. The deed was recorded January 4, 1915, in Book 2, Page 233.

In accordance with the deed, when any of the members of the original Alamosa Spanish Cemetery Association moved away or died, that person's share passed to the remaining owners. In 1983 the sole remaining owner is Romolo Medina, age 95, who keeps the records and operates the cemetery with the assistance of his son, Benito.

Early records exist for the years 1913-1924, these records having been found in a ledger. Other records, except those kept by Romolo Medina, have been lost.

HISTORY

When Alamosa Spanish Cemetery was organized in 1913, Alamosa had many small cemeteries, segregated by religion or other characteristics. Most grave markers here bear Spanish surnames, but the cemetery is not restricted to Catholics. There are a few graves belonging to other cultural groups, but no specific reference is made to Oriental or Black individuals. Families of those interred must believe in God and consider the cemetery a holy place for souls to rest.

Markers date from 1908 to the present. The first recorded burial was that of Susano Velasquez, who died September 28, 1913, at age 70. He is buried in a lot assigned to Cresencio Valdez. A headstone bearing the name Joe Rocky Mondragon and the death date August 17, 1908, is located in the north end of the cemetery. Possibly this marker, which predates the beginning of the cemetery, was moved here from another location.

The cemetery has a remarkable variety of markers, ranging from large granite or marble stones to small wooden stakes on which a cross is painted. There are numerous crosses made from materials such as iron, cement, or wood. One plot containing seven graves has a large cross and twenty markers decorated with inscriptions, figures of Christ or Mother Mary, and bright plastic flowers. Many graves in the cemetery appear to be unmarked.

The property consists of ten acres purchased from John Ira Green, an attorney, by the 31 original members of the Alamosa Spanish Cemetery Association. Each of these members contributed $65.00 for land, fencing and other necessities. When Romolo Medina, as sole survivor, assumed the care of the property the Association had several outstanding bills which were paid off by Mr. Medina during a period of twelve years. In 1982 a benefit dance was held to raise funds for improvements.

The main entrance is through a gate on a three foot high adobe wall that fronts on Eight Mile Road South. The other three sides of the cemetery are fenced. In recent years the cemetery was badly deteriorated and in need of care, but weeds and trash now are cleaned up from time to time.

BECKER-HANSEN CEMETERY
(also known as Old Home, Hansen or Hansen-Becker Cemetery)

LOCATION

Section 15, Township 36 North, Range 11 East,
N.M.P.M., in Alamosa County, Colorado.
(Six miles east of Alamosa and six miles south of U.S. 160 along east boundary of the Alamosa
National Wildlife refuge.)

RECORDS

A property deed under the name of Becker-Hansen
Cemetery was recorded on July 29, 1901, in Costilla County, where this site was located prior to the formation of Alamosa County in part from Costilla
County. A warranty deed was recorded in Alamosa
County, Book 35 Page 327.

According to the property deed, this cemetery is to be "forever used and reserved as a burial ground for Becker, Hansen, Kaddatz and Houser families." Records which are incomplete, are in the possession of Harry Becker.

HISTORY

Becker-Hansen Cemetery was established by Peter Hansen on a homestead originally owned by his brother-in-law, Fredrick Becker. The reason for locating the cemetery on the Becker homestead, which is on the east side of the Rio Grande, was its dry ground, in contrast to Peter Hansen's homestead on the west side of the Rio Grande. Peter Hansen's 14-day old daughter, Anna, was buried at the Hansen homestead after her death on February 21, 1878, but high water in the spring washed out the grave. Her remains were removed to the Becker's property.

Born on October 25, 1837, in Schleswig-Holstein, Germany, Peter Hansen immigrated to the United States in 1859. In August, 1861, he enlisted in Company I, First Colorado
Cavalry, and was stationed at Fort Garland in the San Luis Valley in 1862. After his discharge in 1864, he filed on a homestead in the Valley.

While in the cattle-raising business, he met his future wife, Emilie Tessendorf, daughter of William and Johanna Tessendorf, German immigrants who had homesteaded in the Wet Mountain Valley. Two of Emilie's sisters, Augusta

(Mrs. Fredrick Becker) and Rosa (Mrs. Albert Kaddatz), settled on successful ranches along the Rio Grande.

The above members of Emilie Hansen's family are among the individuals buried in the Becker-Hansen Cemetery. Peter and Emilie, however, rest in a vault in Alamosa Cemetery. Peter Hansen planned to build a mausoleum at the Becker-Hansen Cemetery, but he died of pneumonia on February 12, 1913, before its construction. Instead, he was buried beside Anna. Later Emilie had the mausoleum erected in the Alamosa Cemetery, to which his remains were moved. There he was joined by Emilie; two unmarried daughters, Emma and Eliza; and two grandsons, William and Charles Jones. Anna's remains were left in the Becker-Hansen Cemetery. Ranch workers and their children are also buried in the cemetery.

The most recent burial in this cemetery took place about 1967. There are 13 marked graves and 5 unmarked graves. Iron fences surround some plots, most notably the Tessendorfs' and Anna's, and headstones are of quarried rock. The cemetery is enclosed by a wire fence with a gate in need of minor repair. The entire site is behind a high, chain-link fence with a locked gate belonging to the Alamosa National Wildlife Refuge, which owns the old homestead. A key to this gate is kept by the cemetery's caretaker, Harry Becker, Jr., a grandson of Fredrick Becker.

Records

Alamosa County records indicate that the land was deeded as McKinnon Cemetery. City records in Alamosa reveal that two Richardson brothers were disinterred in 1905 and 1912 and moved to Alamosa Cemetery.

History

McGinty Cemetery is located north of Alamosa near an early agricultural settlement called McGinty, now disappeared. On the basis of a site survey made in 1975, the earliest burial date is believed to have been in 1889, when Minnie May McKinnon died and was buried here. Another headstone has a date of 1891, and one of the Richardson brothers is known to have died in 1900.

This cemetery has been abandoned for many years and is in extremely poor condition. In 1975 only six markers, most of which had fallen, were found, but there was evidence of an undetermined number of other graves. It has been said that markers were carried away by collectors. Remnants of at least one picket fence, once an enclosure for a grave, were found.

By 1983 nothing had been done to prevent continued deterioration of the cemetery. Located on Busby ranch property, cattle have pastured in the cemetery at will and have bedded here in the shade of the lone tree.

History (continued)

Efforts were made in 1983 to have the cemetery protected with a fence. Because either the county or private parties would have to bear the expense of a new survey and the fence, these efforts have been unsuccessful. The present location of descendants of the deceased persons is unknown.

LOCATION

(North of Mosca on Colorado 17 one mile to Six Mile Lane, better known as the Mosca-Sand Dunes Road; three miles east on Mosca-Sand Dunes Road to County 112 North; North on County 112 North one-half mile. The grave is located in a pasture on the east side of the road just north of a fence gate.)

HISTORY

Although there are two bases for markers and indentations for two other graves, the only verifiable burial here is that of Jakob Hiebert, who died in 1911.

Hiebert's marble monument has fallen but is in good condition otherwise, and the inscription is entirely legible. This inscription, written in German with a quotation from the Gutenberg Bible, reads:

Gelig sind die Toten, die in dem Herr sterben
Offenb; Johannis 14:13
Die Offenbarung St. Johannis
Unser Vater
Jakob P. Hiebert
Geborn den 30 Marz 1865
Gestoben den 6 April 1911

The English translation reads:

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord
Revelations 14:13
Revelations of St. John
Our Father
Jakob Hiebert
Born 30 March 1865
Died 6 April 1911

The Hiebert grave is on private ranch property, and no effort is made to keep cattle off the gravesites, although the area once was fenced. The graves apparently were near a house, as an artesian well and evidence of destroyed buildings can be found in the area.

POUNDSTONE CEMETERY

(also known as: Old Mosca Cemetery)

LOCATION

Section 33, Township 40 North, Range 10 East,
N.M.P.M., in Alamosa County, Colorado
(One mile north of Mosca and 1/2 mile west of Colorado 17 on the north side of Six Mile Lane.)

RECORDS

Local women are compiling information regarding people buried in this cemetery.

HISTORY

Because of the lack of records, removal of remains, departure of descendants from the area, and destruction of the site by bulldozing, information about Poundstone
Cemetery is sketchy.

The first settlement in the Mosca area took place in the late 1880s, when the community was called Streator.
Population peaked during the 1890s and then gradually dwindled.

Poundstone Cemetery is said to have been established when Mrs. John Poundstone died at her home in 1892 and was buried on the family farm. However, as late as 1983 one could read an inscription on the headstone of Florence B.
Page, indicating that Mrs. Page died in 1889. Perhaps her remains were moved from a burial elsewhere. In any case, they no longer are in this cemetery, for they were moved to the Monte Vista Cemetery in 1983. No evidence indicates where Mrs. Poundstone's grave was situated or whether it still remains here.

In 1982 the Colorado State Archaeologist stated that 35 graves might have existed at that time. Only three head-stones remained. These were Mrs. Page's marble marker, an unmarked marble slab, and an unmarked granite stone. Contemporary newspaper accounts indicate that the twin infant sons of James Brown were buried here in 1895 and 1896, while a miner, John Block, who was killed in a cave-in on Blanca Peak, was buried here in 1897.* The largest funeral took place in 1901 when J. D. Bunn was laid to rest with the rites of the Odd Fellows. The last burial is said to have taken place in 1946 or 1947.

*David Tool passed away in 1898 and very possibly is buried here.

Disurbance of graves first occurred because the cemetery had been located just south of an irrigation ditch, the Streator Lateral of the San Luis Ditch. Sub-surface water from the lateral reached the graves, and some remains were moved to Garnett-Speiser and Monte Vista Cemeteries.

In 1982 the present owner of the property, George Kirkpatrick, proposed moving the Streater Lateral southward over the cemetery to facilitate the installation of a rotary sprinkler system to irrigate his farmland. This violation of the cemetery was averted because of community reaction and volunteer assistance in constructing the ditch around the cemetery instead of through it.

An old wire fence surrounds this cemetery, and a gate in the fence is topped by an iron span bearing the letter "M" to denote Mosca. The site is heavily overgrown with weeds and has had no maintenance for many years.

HISTORY

Settlers homesteaded land in this community in 1880-1882. The first burial in this rural pioneer cemetery may be that of Daniel Starbuck, who drowned in 1886. No dates for burials here are firm, however. Available information indicates only that Harry Martin died while still a young boy in 1898 or 1899, and a Norton baby was buried here about 1910.

Similarly, the names of people buried here are learned by hearsay. In addition to Daniel Starbuck, assuming that he was buried here, there are Wayne and Seth Starbuck, some of the Martins, a Mrs. Bedencourt, and a Mrs. Scott. Mrs. Scott lived in the Wake family home just north of the cemetery, and she was the mother of Mrs. Wake. About twenty graves, some of which are unmarked, appear to have been located here.

No inscriptions remain on the markers. Some graves are marked only by large field stones. At least four graves had picket fences, one of which has fallen over. A mesh wire fence protects another grave. Bricks at one grave identify the burial of Mrs. Scott, for her grave was known to be lined with bricks due to the high water table, and the name "Scott" appears on a marker base.

Despite the effects of many years of weathering since this cemetery was abandoned, it shows evidence of thoughtful care today. A fence was built around the site by the late George Martin. Access is by means of a wooden stile over the fence. In 1982 the Stanley Homemakers' Club sponsored a cleanup of the cemetery, and brush, weeds, and vines were removed.

Stanley Cemetery

The history of Stanley sheds some light on the period when the cemetery chiefly was used. A post office named Coryell was established in 1887 three miles north of the cemetery. This was the location of a small community called Coryell, named for Charles A. Coryell. After a land-fraud scheme tarnished Mr. Coryell's name, both the post office and the town became Stanley in 1890. The post office was discontinued in 1891, however. The town itself has been dismantled long ago.

For unknown reasons a church was built across the road to the west of the cemetery site rather than in the town. A Reverend Williams organized this church, which was called the Baptist Emmanuel Church. The building was in use at least by the year 1889, when it is known that Elder Ennis Starbuck preached here. Mormons, called Strangites, also held services in this building, but the group moved away from the area because of the large number of deaths caused by typhoid and diphtheria. The church itself was razed in 1910.

In addition to typhoid and diphtheria, scarlet fever and small pox epidemics are remembered in this area. Harry Martin's death in the late 1890s was due to scarlet fever.

This area is known as the Stanley district because a school district existed here at one time. Although town, postoffice, and school no longer exist, the local residents still consider the area to be the Stanley community in terms of a well-established neighborhood of farmers and ranchers.

GARNETT-SPEISER CEMETERY
(Also known as Garnett Cemetery and Speiser Cemetery)

LOCATION

Section 15, Township 40 North, Range 9 East,
N.M.P.M., in Alamosa County, Colorado.
(Two miles south of Hooper and six miles west of Colorado 17 on the south side of Ten Mile Lane.)

RECORDS

Early records and plot maps were lost following the death of John Chrisman in 1951. Available records are in the custody of Mrs. Joe A. Walker, Box 14, Hooper, Colorado 81136.

HISTORY

Originally known as Garnett Cemetery, this burial ground was located near a small farming community of Garnett, which since has disappeared. In 1892 Charles Speiser donated one and a half acres of land for this public cemetery which was incorporated on February 1, 1892, by the Garnett Cemetery Association. A constitution and bylaws were written by W. R. Pyke. The first officers were D. D. Bloom, president; A. D. Booth, secretary; Charles Hack, treasurer; and C. C. Miller, A. D. Booth, and A. K. Mott, trustees. With the exception of Charles Speiser who was an honorary member, original members of the cemetery association each paid $1.00. For unknown reasons Speiser is buried at Monte Vista.

Lots were sold at $3.00 for the first purchase and $2.00 for additional lots. The first burial was that of a trustee.
C. C. Miller, in 1895. Among pioneer settlers buried here are the Honorable Seth Hathaway who served in the state legislature and who was a local postmaster and Elder Ennis Starbuck who was pastor of the Mosca Baptist Church and Baptist Emmanuel Church at Stanley.

A visit to this cemetery suggests the variety of the cultural and economic backgrounds found in this agricultural neighborhood. Special emblems for various fraternal lodges decorate several graves. There are a number of elaborate markers such as upright tree trunks made of concrete or cast iron monuments. In the east end of the cemetery several graves bearing Hispanic names are decorated with crosses made of a variety of materials, religious images, and pieces of china, glass, and plastic flowers. Throughout the cemetery one finds native, uncut rocks and handmade wooden markers side by side with conventional cemetery monuments.

A potter's field is located in an unusual manner. It meanders southwest from a point on the south side of Block 4. Many of the graves in the potter's field are believed to belong to victims of the influenza epidemic of 1918. Although these graves often are decorated, it is not known who cares for them.

Following the loss of records and plot maps in 1951, the cemetery was extended west by the present Blocks 2 and 3. This new addition prevented the possibility of opening unmarked graves for new burials.

In 1975 the cemetery association was reorganized and the name Garnett-Speiser Cemetery Association was adopted. A new fence and gate, a sign bearing the name "Speiser Cemetery", a restroom, and a box containing a visitors' registration book were installed. Boy Scouts and 4-H Club members have helped control weeds, and the general appearance of the cemetery is much better than in earlier years. It still is being used for burials.

Officers in recent years have been Revere Berryman, president; Neil Cowan, vice president; and Lois Walker, secretary and treasurer. Improvements in the cemetery have been accomplished in their tenure.

EASTDALE CEMETERY

LOCATION

Section 27, Township 1 North, Range 74 West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Costilla County, CO. (Two miles north of Jaroso, one mile west to corner in county road, then a quarter mile southwest on faint ranch road. Cemetery is near mesa rim, where drainage drops west toward the Rio Grande.)

RECORDS

Microfilm #GS 599,836 LDS Library, Salt Lake City, Utah.

HISTORY

This Mormon cemetery was established in 1891, when Nettie Jensen, a three-year-old child, was buried here. Burials occurred in the 1890s and in the first decade of the 1900s. Fifteen graves were located during a site survey in 1983. Of these, three were unmarked. Most of the burials in the cemetery were infants or young children. It has been said that eighteen graves existed here.

Eastdale was established in 1891 by members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. The Mormons at Eastdale had purchased 2,000 acres from the U. S. Freehold Land and Immigration Company in 1890, and work commenced on a reservoir and irrigation ditch. The first homes were built near the reservoir. In 1891 the first houses were constructed at Eastdale, and the earlier dwellings later were moved to Eastdale also. In 1900 the farm community's population still was only 122 with 16 families. However, the town had a school, a store, a postoffice, and a brick church. The cemetery land belonged to the Corporate Eastdale Land, Canal, and Reservoir Company. The town ceased to exist after 1909. Although some accounts say that the population voted to move, others report that the residents were forced to move after a court decreed that they did not have clear title to the land. The people of Eastdale moved to Manassa and Sanford.

In 1933 work was done on the cemetery by members of families whose loved ones were buried here. A fence was erected around the property, and headstones or some other form of marker was placed at grave sites. A single concrete slab was placed over four adjacent graves. Old wood and wire fences enclose three sites, but the age of the fences is unknown. Despite deterioration prior to the work in 1933, the cemetery is in fair condition. Weeds and holes caused by snakes or rodents are untended.

MESITA CEMETERY

LOCATION

Section 30, Township 2 North, Range 72 West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, in Costilla County, Colorado.

(One-half mile north of the Mesita postoffice and the Colorado Aggregate Company's office on a lane that dead-ends at the cemetery.)

RECORDS

Deed was executed on March 29, 1917. Cemetery plat and records of the Mesita Cemetery Association, Inc., are kept by George Oringdulph, Mesita, Colorado 81142.

HISTORY

The Mesita Cemetery Association was organized and a certificate of incorporation was issued in 1915. Four burials took place the following year, in 1916. Two Metcalf children, one of whom died in 1914, are buried here, but these remains were moved here some time later, after first being buried on a nearby mesa. The first president of the cemetery association was A. J. Barnes, while the first secretary was E. T. Childs.

The Costilla Estates Development Company, of which E. T. Childs was an employee, instigated the town of Mesita and the short-line railroad that ran through it. In 1910 the San Luis Southern Railway reached the location of Mesita, which then was called Hamburg. The development company had platted the town and hoped to sell lots to farmers from Hamburg, Iowa. The name of the town was changed when these prospects failed to buy. Despite this inauspicious beginning, a thriving community came into being with stores, a bank, a school, and a Methodist Church built with local lava rock. Since the 1950s scoria has been mined northwest of town by the Colorado Aggregate Company, which also has a shipping plant at Blanca. Although the population of Mesita has dwindled and the old businesses are gone, the aggregate company is the largest private employer in Costilla County. The railroad, operating under the name Southern San Luis Valley Railroad, was abandoned in 1958. At one time Henry Quiller and George Oringdulph owned both the aggregate company and the railroad. The aggregate company no longer is locally owned.

At the Mesita Cemetery members of the Barnes, Quiller, and Oringdulph families and others have been buried. The majority of the names on markers in the cemetery are Anglo but Hispanic and Japanese surnames also are to be found.

It has been suggested that the Japanese people buried here had lived in or near the new town of San Acacio. They might have been buried at Mesita because the only cemeteries near San Acacio were the Catholic burying grounds at old San Acacio. The Japanese burials at Mesita took place in the 1920s. Some time between the early 1970s and the early 1980s the Japanese markers were removed from their original location and were piled to one side. They now have been erected again but apparently not in their original positions. They are toward the north end of the cemetery. The stones bear some inscriptions written in Japanese. The markers are squared, upright posts cut from sandstone.

A potter's field is located in the northwest portion of the cemetery. The field is not mowed and no markers are evident. The west margin of the potter's field and of the southwest portion of the main cemetery trends northeast to southwest, paralleling the abandoned right-of-way of the railroad.

On the whole, the cemetery is well marked and in good condition. The Columbine Community Club, a women's group, marked all of the graves several years ago. Concrete markers were placed on graves that were unmarked. In the early years clean-up days took place annually on Memorial Day. In the 1940s trees were planted and a man was hired to water trees and grass. After the late 1940s such community care generally stopped. However, within the past few years the cemetery has seen some renovation. Several graves have been outlined with a concrete framework which contains a layer of scoria over the grave.

The entire cemetery is enclosed within a fence with a large steel and wire gate at the entrance.

LUISITA CORDOVA GRAVE

HISTORY

This single grave is reported to be that of Luisita Cordova, a Pentecostal, who died prior to the establishment of the Garcia Pentecostal Cemetery. At that time, which would have been before 1944, the only cemeteries in the area were the Garcia Presbyterian Cemetery and the Costilla, New Mexico Cemetery.

This grave is in a vacant field which is surrounded by a barbed wire fence. The grave is visible from the County Road. It is protected by a concrete enclosure about two feet high, and by a roof which is supported by four posts. Inside this shelter there is a religious image which has fallen over and a masonry basin, similar to a small birdbath, in which people have tossed coins. No head stone is present.

HISTORY

The earliest burial in the Garcia Presbyterian Cemetery was in 1906 for Luisita P. Suazo. Her grave is marked by a headstone that also bears the name of her husband, the Reverend Romulo Suazo, who died in 1928 at the age of 71.

In the mid 1880s both the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches established missions at La Plaza de los Manzanares, as Garcia was then known. Perhaps the abundance of Penitente moradas in the southeastern part of the San Luis Valley accounts for some of this Protestant concern at that time. Religious services and secular school instruction both were programs of the mission work. The Presbyterian Church and mission school were just south of the old plaza, while the Methodist church was just north of the plaza.

The Presbyterian mission, which outlived the Methodist here, was particularly successful in Hispanic communities because of the presence of Hispanic clergymen, who trained for church service at the Presbyterian College of the Southwest in Del Norte. Women from Eastern states taught in the mission school. Several young people from the Garcia area went on to acquire high school educations in Presbyterian boarding schools in New Mexico, and some then pursued their careers outside the Valley. In later years the Presbyterian mission at San Pablo, near San Luis, became the center for Presbyterian activity in Costilla County, and the mission at Garcia ceased.

Several burials took place in the first three decades of the 1900s at the Garcia Presbyterian Cemetery. The establishment of the Garcia Pentecostal Cemetery in 1944 coincides roughly with the discontinuance of use of the Presbyterian Cemetery. Only two dates, 1952 and 1979, are to be found at burials in the Presbyterian Cemetery after that time.

Markers in the Presbyterian Cemetery bear sixteen Spanish surnames and one Anglo name. In addition, there are eleven unmarked graves, eight of which appear to belong to babies. The single Anglo name is Albert Wooten, who died in 1910. A question arises as to whether he might have been related to Rickens "Uncle Dick" Wooten (Wooten or Wootton) as other old-time trappers and traders are known to have frequented nearby Costilla, New Mexico, after its establishment in the late 1840s.

The Garcia Presbyterian Cemetery is fenced. Most of the markers are quarried stone memorials, although a few are plain, wooden crosses. Several markers provide biographical information about place of birth, arrival in the area, and so on. The cemetery is weedy but not deteriorated.

HISTORY

The earliest date in the Garcia Pentecostal Cemetery is 1944 on the marker of William L. Cordova. This date precedes the establishment of the Catholic cemetery across the road by one year.

A Pentecostal is a member of a religious body that "emphasizes revivalistic worship, baptism confirming the gift of tongues, faith healing, and premillennial teaching," according to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. Pentecostal religious groups have evangelized successfully in Hispanic communities of the San Luis Valley for several decades. An Assembly of God church is located just north of the center of Garcia.

There are nearly as many graves in the Pentecostal cemetery as in the Catholic at Garcia, but comparisons in church membership cannot be drawn. All Catholics of the area prior to 1945 and some since have been buried at Costilla, New Mexico. All names on the markers in the Pentecostal cemetery indicate that the deceased were Hispanic. Several Cordovas were buried in this cemetery, as in the Catholic cemetery across the road.

The Garcia Pentecostal Cemetery occupies the east end of a large piece of fenced land, entered through a wide gate at the county road. Markers chiefly are quarried stone monuments, although a few graves have only field rocks as markers. Fences around a few of the plots are constructed of iron, picket, and chain link. Some sites also are protected by slabs of granite. A porcelain portrait is embedded in one head stone. For the most part, markers in this cemetery may indicate a greater expenditure than one finds in most rural cemeteries of the area. Several unmarked graves appear to belong to babies. Plastic flowers decorate many graves. The cemetery is in current use and is in good condition with the exception of holes made by burrowing animals at grave sites.

HISTORY

The first burial in the Garcia Catholic Cemetery was that of Serafin Cordova in 1945, nearly a century after settlement first occurred at what now is called Garcia. For many years no cemetery existed here. The first was the Presbyterian Cemetery, not the Catholic cemetery which one would expect to find first in a Hispanic community. The Pentecostal Cemetery also was in use a year prior to the Catholic, if head stones can be relied upon for dates. Catholic burials before 1945 were in Costilla, New Mexico.

When New Mexican people settled at Costilla in 1849, La Plaza de los Manzanares also was created in the same neighborhood. Later the Colorado state line was to separate the two, although at one time both were in Colorado. La Plaza de los Manzanares, later called Garcia, can be said to be one of the oldest settlements in the present state of Colorado. Until well into the twentieth century the center of commercial and Catholic religious life in this neighborhood was Costilla, so neither a Catholic Church nor a Catholic cemetery was established until 1945. Garcia's Catholic Church is east of the cemetery.

A post office was established at La Plaza de los Manzanares in 1915. The name Garcia was selected in Washington from three names submitted for the post office - Manzanares, Trujillo, and Garcia. These were the names of the three most populous families in the village, which thereafter was called Garcia. Prior to the establishment of the postoffice, mail service was located at Costilla, New Mexico.

Garcia Catholic Cemetery

The Garcia Catholic Cemetery is in a large piece of land donated by Costilla County. The land is enclosed by a fence which is entered through a wide gate from the county road. Graves are confined to the easternmost part of the land.

Markers range from quarried stone monuments to simple wood crosses. A few graves are enclosed by iron fences embellished with unusual wrought iron work, such as the name of the deceased or an elaborate cross. Small religious statues, other forms of ornate sculpture, a porcelain portrait embedded in a headstone, niches for photographs, and many plastic floral arrangements are found in this small cemetery. In addition, several graves are unmarked.

All marked graves in this cemetery bear Hispanic surnames. The name Cordova is especially common.

The cemetery is in current use. Its condition is fair. Burrowing animals are creating a problem around some graves, and old floral arrangements and other debris litter a nearby field.

HISTORY

In records of the Genealogical Center in Denver, this cemetery is called the Sud Brennaman Cemetery. The name "Sud" causes confusion, for Brennaman's given name was Seward. Family members today do not recall the name "Sud", which apparently was a contraction of "Seward". Seward Brennaman was not buried in this cemetery but at the Ed Brennaman Cemetery south of the military fort, to compound the confusion further.

Seward Brennaman was the second husband of Julia Brennaman, who is buried here. More properly, this graveyard should be called the Julia Brennaman Cemetery, as local residents refer to it. In addition to Julia's grave, there are four others, all of which belong to relatives of hers. These are her son by her first marriage, her sister, a nephew, and Julia's son Theodore by Seward Brennaman.

The first burial, that of Julia's son by the first marriage, was in 1918. Julia's marker carries the latest date, 1934. Her son "Ted" Brennaman, who was buried in 1929 at age 24, was killed after he shot both his wife and his sister-in-law one day in Fort Garland.

The cemetery is fenced and a gate, once the main entrance, opens out to nothing, for the road cut is directly below it. Markers are in good condition. Only one grave, the nephew's, is unmarked so far as can be determined. Although no care is given to the cemetery, it is in fair condition. Because of the dry location weeds are sparse.

HISTORY

During the period when Fort Garland functioned as a military post (1858-83), soldiers and their families were buried in this cemetery. After threats of Indian trouble ceased with the removal of the Utes to reservations in Utah and southwestern Colorado, the fort was abandoned. According to William Hoagland, curator of Fort Garland Museum, the bodies of soldiers who had been buried in this cemetery were then moved on a railroad flatcar to Fort Leavenworth.

The only three remaining burials that now can be identified are those of children. Two of these are the children of James H. (Henry) and Mary Meder. The third is a Snodgrass child who died in 1886. These graves relate to the area's history in different ways.

Henry and Mary Meder lived in the town of Fort Garland long after the fort had closed, although Henry first came there as a soldier. At one time the Meders ran the fort's mess hall. He also worked as a teamster, a gandy dancer on the Denver and Rio Grande, a hunter, an owner of a meat market, and a mail carrier in his long career in the area. He was a popular storyteller and a legend in his own lifetime. Other Meder children are buried at Hillside Cemetery.

The Snodgrass child's grave in 1886 is of interest, for it coincides with those of several children who are buried at Hillside Cemetery. It is probable that an epidemic of a disease such as diphtheria occurred in that year.

Besides these three legible, though partly broken, markers, there are broken stones and numerous fragments of markers scattered on the ground at the Old Soldiers' Cemetery. No fence protects the site. It is badly eroded and deteriorated in general.

HISTORY

Joseph Hoffman, his wife, Mary, and their son, Rudolph, are buried on what was Hoffman property at the mouth of Trinchera Canyon below Mountain Home Dam. Dates of burials are unknown.

Originally Rudolph was buried on a ranch south of Blanca, but his remains were moved to the present site. It is said that Rudolph and Harry Thompson were playing a friendly but dangerous game with guns one day. They were trying to shoot the heels from each other's boots, when Rudolph was shot and killed. He was 20 years of age. Thompson was sent to the penitentiary.

The Hoffman grave site consists of three marble head stones nearly lost to sight in a thicket of weeds and brush. Nearby several large cottonwood stumps are all that remain of trees that once paralleled the irrigation ditch and shaded the graves. In the early 1970s an 8'x7' plot was fenced with poles, but these now are gone. Remnants of concrete steps and foundations on a hillside north of the mouth of the creek are all that remain of the old home.

HISTORY

This cemetery is called Hillside Cemetery by the Veteran's Administration. However, some local residents and U. S. Geological Survey quadrangle maps call it MacMullan Cemetery. The latter name has been used because four MacMullan children who died within five days in 1886 were buried here.

The first burial here was Jonathan Atencio's in 1875, as far as the markers show. Because civilian families moved into the area soon after the military fort was established at Fort Garland in 1858, it seems quite possible that the Atencio burial was not the first nonmilitary one at Fort Garland. Between the burial of the Atencio infant and the MacMullen children, a few others also took place at Hillside Cemetery.

It can be assumed that the MacMullan children were the victims of an epidemic disease such as diphtheria. Epidemics were not the sole cause of high mortality among the children in a family, though, as is shown by the deaths of several Wilcoxin children who are buried here. Their deaths took place over a period of a few years, from 1885 to 1890.

Among the notable persons who were buried in Hillside Cemetery is Charles MacMullan, father of the children mentioned above. He came to Fort Garland as a soldier at the Fort. Later he ran Ferd Meyer's store. He also was a postmaster, a county commissioner, superintendent of schools, a merchant, and a practitioner of medicine.

Tom Tobin, who gained fame both as a mountain man and as a pioneer of the San Luis Valley, was buried here in 1904. His marker gives his name as Thomas T. Toben. Another marker, which disappeared, spelled the name "Tobens". His wife, Maria Pasquala Vernal (Bernal), also rests here. Their son-in-law, William Carson, who was the son of Kit Carson, is said to have been buried at Hillside Cemetery, but his grave has not been located. Tom Tobin and Kit Carson were friends for many years in New Mexico prior to their being neighbors when Kit Carson was commandant at Fort Garland in 1866 and 1867. Further biographical information about these famous families can be found in several printed sources.

Both Spanish and Anglo surnames are found on the markers at Hillside Cemetery, and individuals from both cultures are representatives of pioneer families of the area. Similarly, the styles of the markers show a wide variety, from simple wooden or concrete crosses to uniquely shaped monuments made of quarried stone. Many markers are elaborately decorated with plastic flowers. Several plots are fenced with iron or picket fences, and the entire cemetery is protected by a wire fence.

Hillside Cemetery is one of several graveyards in the San Luis Valley where no records are kept and a number of burials are unmarked. Although many unmarked plots can be recognized, there undoubtedly are a good number which cannot be. It is not uncommon for old remains to be discovered when a new grave is dug, because of the random method of choosing a site.

Hillside Cemetery has been used continuously to the present time. Some plots receive care, but the cemetery as a whole, does not. Its condition varies from one part to another as a result. On the whole, it is fair to very good.

HISTORY

A story told by the late Pat Denton, son of pioneer settlers in the Zapata area, links this burial site to frontier days. In the mid-1860s, according to Denton, a band of Indians came north along the western foot of Blanca Peak and stole horses from the small ranches in the area. At that time the occupants of the land were Spanish-surnamed families. The men from these ranches pursued the Indians to Mosca Pass and killed them. When word of this incident reached Indians who were congregated at Fort Garland, 23 of them set out for Zapata to retaliate. South of Zapata the Indians and Hispanos met and engaged in battle, and there were losses on both sides. The local men who were killed were buried in the cemetery, while dead Indians were put in a nearby gully. Among the Hispanos killed in the battle and buried in the cemetery was a Senor Trujillo, whose family later is said to have lived in Monte Vista.

It is not known whether Hispanic ranchers were buried here prior to the Indian fight. A group of investors obtained title to the Zapata Ranch in 1876. Some ranch hands who worked or lived at the ranch were buried here until there were as many as ten markers at the site, according to area residents.

At some time prior to 1983 the ground was leveled, and it became part of a hay field. All visual evidence of the cemetery and its exact location have been obliterated.

CALIFORNIA PEAK TRAGEDY

LOCATION

Alamosa County, Township 39 North, Range 32 West, Northeast of Uracca Cemetery in the Sangre De Christo Mountains.

RECORDS

Alamosa County Coroners' Report.

HISTORY

Shortly after midnight December 15, 1965, a large bright flash of light was sighted about thirty miles northeast of Alamosa, by a United Airlines pilot on a regularly scheduled flight over Alamosa.

That same night a Lockheed Super Constellation Cargo Plane owned by the Flying Tigers Air Freight Company of Los Angeles, California failed to make a routine fuel stop in Lamar, Colorado. The plane, loaded with forty-one thousand pounds of battery operated toys was en route from Los Angeles, California, to Chicago, Illinois, and the last contact was from the Alamosa Airport.

Aboard the ill-fated aircraft were Captain Everett D. Reed, age 46, Pilot; 25 year old Thomas Hunt, Co-pilot; and Flight Engineer, Brian Myles Ferris, aged 29, all from California.

Wreckage was spotted by Clyde Helms Jr. on the afternoon of Thursday, December 16. The wreckage was on the 13,500 foot north slope of California Peak.

Ground search began the following morning, with a base camp set up in the county court house, and consisted of Alamosa County Sheriff, Ben Phillips, and his crew, the Civil Air Patrol, the Fort Carson Search and Rescue Team, officials of the Flying Tigers Company, and the Adams County Spanky Patrol. Trained especially for this type of rescue, the Spanky Patrol consisted of 16 and 17 year old boys. Their agility and ability to adapt to high altitudes were an asset to the searchers.

Arriving at the crash site Saturday afternoon, Dec. 18th, it was determined there were no survivors. The decapitated remains of the flight engineer were found and brought down the mountain side and returned to California for burial. Positive identification was made by the F.B.I. through finger prints.

Bodies of the other crew members could not be located. Apparently Ferris was thrown clear of the wreckage at the time of the explosion. Because of extremely bad weather and rough terrain the search for the other bodies was discontinued until the next spring.

Officials from the Flying Tigers Company, who had been with the search from the beginning, returned to Alamosa in May of 1966, and the search for the crew members was resumed. In an article in the May 23rd edition of the Valley Courier, "Three engines were found about one-half mile down the rough slope from the point of impact," said Sheriff Phillips. "All four engines were found, the pistons knocked out from every engine."

Wreckage was scattered over a wide area descending down the mountain slope to an area shortly above Zapata Falls. The point of impact, followed by the explosion, was so terrific and the heat so intense, little of anything was left to be recovered.

Because the pilot and the co-pilot were strapped in their seats in the nose of the plane, their bodies were blown to bits along with the plane. What small pieces of bone and flesh that were found were buried at the site of the crash. Instruments to be collected for the investigation of the plane crash were either shattered or found fused together from the intense heat.

In an interview with "Doc" Kirby, then editor of the Valley Courier, he stated that he and George Prentice, a Courier reporter, joined Clyde Helms, Jr. in one of his numerous flights over the crash site. Because of the depth of the snow, only a part of a wing and some of the fuselage could be seen. Mr. Helms flew over the area several times so his passengers could photograph the plane. "Doc" said he was sure they and the small plane would end up the same way as the cargo plane.

When it was determined the remains of Mr. Hunt and Capt. Reed could not be brought down from the crash, memorial services were held at the site. In a copyrighted story by the Denver Post, a hand made copper plaque was placed near the crash site in honor of the two men.

Almost twenty years have passed since the plane crash, and remains can still be seen. Once in a while a mountain climber will find a piece of a toy blown out of the plane in the explosion, or maybe a piece of the plane for a souvenir. Using binoculars or a tele-photo camera lens, the main part of the wreckage can be seen quite well from the Uracca turnoff on Highway 150 south of the SandDunes.

The tragedy will always remain a mystery. Why was the plane off course by twenty miles? What was the cause of the loss of the lives of these three men who were just performing their job?

BLANCA CEMETERY

LOCATION

Section 10, Township 30 South, Range 73 West, of the Sixth Principal Meridian, in Costilla
County, Colorado.
(One mile north of Blanca and one-half mile west.)

RECORDS

Quit claim deed from R. A. Skinkle to the Town of Blanca, Colorado, filed Oct. 28, 1977, Costilla County, Book 100, Page 4, Reception #127781. Records of the Blanca Cemetery Association are kept at Blanca Town Hall.

HISTORY

In 1910, when the new town of Blanca was booming, J. W. Skinkle donated land for a cemetery. The first burial, that of Joe Lundy, took place in the same year. Skinkle himself, a local merchant, and others of the Skinkle family, have been buried here over the years. E. F. Smith, who was active in local politics and public education, and many other residents of the town and its surrounding farms have been interred in this cemetery. Along with these Anglo-surnamed families, several Japanese graves also are located here. Some of the latter were moved to Alamosa City Cemetery and elsewhere in 1983, but a few still remain at the Blanca Cemetery.

The town of Blanca came into being as an agricultural center in 1908, when a land lottery was held to attract settlers. Railroad service to the east, west, and south encouraged the development of commercial vegetable raising and shipping as well as a thriving trade center. William McClintock, Jr., the last president of the Southern San Luis Valley Railroad, which ran south of Blanca, died in 1958 and is buried in the Blanca Cemetery. Only a remnant of the town's population and trade remains today, although a shipping operation for lava rock supplements the agricultural economy which remains important.

The cemetery has been used continuously to the present time. Many markers are quarried stone monuments. Individual plots are cared for periodically, and the cemetery is in fair to good condition. The cemetery was fenced many years ago, and trees were planted around its periphery. According to an old-timer, now deceased, who helped plant the trees, there are none on the north side because rabbits ate the bark and killed them.

BOWERMAN, REIMER, NELSON GRAVES

LOCATION

Section 21, Township 27 East, Range 73 West, of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Alamosa County, Colorado.

(Located in the Oasis Campground on property owned by Ron Jousma, just south of Great Sand Dunes National Monument boundary and east of Colorado 150.)

RECORDS

None

HISTORY

A mining camp called Blanca, Camp Blanca, and Camp Bowerman was located at the south of North Arrastre Canyon in the 1890s. Although the camp had died by 1896, a postoffice continued to exist with the name "Blanca" for another quarter century. Two of the burials, and also the third quite possibly occurred at this cemetery in 1895.

George Harlan's Postmarks and Places (1976) recounts on pages 163-164 that Jim Bowerman and Jack Reimer died at the mining camp as a result of drinking wood alcohol. This fatal accident occurred after a druggist in Hooper misunderstood an order and sold wood alcohol instead of "good alcohol."

Harlan also says that the young daughter of John D. Nelson, who was Blanca's postmaster in 1898 and 1899, is buried with Bowerman and Reimer. A sign in the cemetery, however, reads: "Grandpa Nelson, 1895; Jim Bowerman, 1895; Jack Reimer, 1895."

The owners of the campground have protected the cemetery with a barbed wire fence and have marked the three graves with small, white wooden crosses and the above-mentioned sign. Ron Jousma is responsible for the cemetery's care.

JANNEY GRAVES

Location

Alamosa County, Colorado. Section 6, Township
28 South, Range 73 West
Believed to have been directly east of the Zapata
Ranch headquarters on the east side of Colorado 150.

Records

None

History

This burial site has been abandoned, and its exact location is unknown. Possibly the two children said to have been interred here were moved to Urraca Cemetery, where two children with the same surname are buried.

Only two graves are believed to have ever existed here. These are said to have belonged to two Janney children, brother and sister of the late Charles Janney, long-time owner of the Alamosa Milk Company. Local relatives of Charles Janney know nothing about the children or the burial site.

URRACA CEMETERY
(also known as Urracca Cemetery)

LOCATION

Section 20, Township 28 South, Range 73 West, of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Alamosa Co., Colo. (East of Colorado 150, via gravel road 1½ miles into the foothills of Blanca Peak massif, on south side of Denton Creek in the Rio Grande National Forest.)

RECORDS

Property deed is recorded in Alamosa County. Urraca Cemetery Association records unavailable at this time.

HISTORY

Urraca Cemetery is private. It was established by early homesteaders of the Urraca area in the spring of 1888, when a Mrs. Matthews was buried here. It is still in use, with burials restricted to descendants of the early homesteaders, most of whom were Mormons.

Well-known pioneer names in the San Luis Valley, which are found in this cemetery, include King, Denton, Calkins, Wellington, Leggett, and others. Among the graves is that of William E. McKinley, who was shot by his brother, Chafen McKinley, at Urraca in 1899. The McKinleys were purported to be cousins of President McKinley. Two Janney children, "baby" and Ralph, may have been moved to their grave sites at Urraca from a burial site east of Zapata Ranch (see Janney Graves).

Urraca originally was part of an area occupied by Spanish-surnamed farmers and ranchers who had not filed legal claims to their land. They had named their settlement "Urraca," meaning "magpie". The Spanish spelling still appears on U. S. Geological Survey maps and elsewhere, but the name now is spelled "Urracca" customarily.

When Mormon homesteaders first moved into the area in 1886 and 1887, they retained the old name for the area. Although some of these newcomers arrived here from Southeastern states, others from Mormon colonies in Conejos County joined in settling Urraca. Because the Mormons at Urraca were unable to acquire sufficient water rights for agricultural irrigation, most of the people left the area within a very few years. Several of the families remained in other parts of the San Luis Valley, however.

The cemetery has many quarried-stone markers. Several graves otherwise unmarked have been identified with small, metal mortuary markers. Cared for by members of the cemetery association, the site is fenced and cleaned from time to time. In the 1970s a picnic table and an outdoor restroom were erected near the cemetery. These amenities have been destroyed by vandals, but the cemetery itself has escaped damage.

Situated in a scenic location among native evergreen trees, the cemetery attracts visitors, many of whom are tourists en route to Great Sand Dunes National Monument. Tourists from various states and nations are among the visitors who sign a registration book at the gate into the cemetery. A highway sign at Colorado 150, reading "Uracca (sic) Cemetery," marks the turnoff to the cemetery.

SINGLE PADRE GRAVE

LOCATION

Section 15, Township 30 South, Range 72 West of the 6th P. M. (One mile north of Fort Garland, 100 yards west of ranch road and 100 yards from the Ute Creek Cemetery.

RECORDS

None

HISTORY

It is believed a Padre (Priest) who accompanied some of the explorers was buried here. A headstone was discovered in the corner of a field with the date 1660 inscribed. The Smithsonian Institute studied it and it was returned to Fort Garland. The last known location of this headstone was at the Fort Garland Museum.

UTE CREEK CEMETERY

LOCATION

Section 15, Township 30 South, Range 72 West, of the 6th P. M. (One mile north of Fort Garland and 100 yards west of the ranch road on the west side of Ute Creek, on the Emmet Calkins Ranch.)

RECORDS

HISTORY

Before Fort Garland was abandoned, civilians could not live within the six mile square which was the Military Reservation.

Emmet Calkins, who lives on the ranch where the cemetery was located remembers seeing the cemetery when he was younger. At that time it was overrun with brush, had a wooden fence around it and had some wooden crosses in it. It was enclosed in a barbed wire fence. Sometime later a fire swept the hillside. All that is left are the rocks that covered some of the graves. Calkin thinks there were between twenty and thirty graves. Since then large trees have grown up in the area.

Louis Medina (now deceased) recalled seeing a man buried in that cemetery. There was no coffin so the family took the body into the grave by ladder and dug a hole for his head so that when the dirt was thrown in the grave, it wouldn't fall in his face.

VICENTE GONZALES CEMETERY

LOCATION

Section 18, Township 2 North, Range 72 West of the 6th P.M. (about 50 yards south of the road between San Padre and Vallejos.

HISTORY

Vicente Gonzales remembers a cemetery about 50 yards from the house under a large tree. One resident recalls that there were five or six children buried there. It is believed that since Mr. Gonzales was a Presbyterian, he could not bury his loved ones in the Catholic Cemetery, so he buried them in his yard.

ED BRENNAMAN CEMETERY

LOCATION

Section 28, Township 30 South, Range 72 West, of the 6th P. M. (this small cemetery is one mile south of Fort Garland on the West side of highway 159.)

RECORDS

No records have been kept and there are no headstones.

HISTORY

John Brennaman and his wife, Nancy, came to the San Luis Valley sometime before 1894. One of their eight children was Ed. He was married in 1894 and after living on several farms he settled on a farm one mile south of Fort Garland, across the highway from his parents.

In April, 1918, one son, Seward Brennaman, died of pneumonia. His mother could not bear his being buried in the rocks on the hill, (possibly Hillside where Clark is buried) so a family plot was started in the trees about 100 yards from Ed's home.

In 1957 the highway from Fort Garland to San Luis was being widened and in order to insure the safety of the five graves a high fence was constructed by the highway department, and all the trees surrounding the cemetery were removed. Lilacs and iris were planted around the cemetery and it is well cared for, but specific locations are lacking, due to no markers.

In Costilla County there are several cemeteries - family and single which individuals can recall. Since they are no longer visible, an attempt has been made to locate them and record as much of the history as possible. Almost certainly, there are others not known.

DOW FAMILY CEMETERY

Section 23, Township 30 South, Range 73 West of the 6th P.M. (one mile east of Blanca and 3/4 mile south of Hwy 160.)

There are no records, but oldtimers remember a small graveyard containing five graves behind the old Dow place. It is recalled that five children in one family died of scarlet fever during an epidemic. Because of the contagion, the funerals were attended only by the family.

SHUMATE BURIALS

Section 34, Township 30 South, Range 72 West, 6th P.M. (about one mile south of the town of Fort Garland on Hwy 159 and about 300 yards east of the highway.) There are no records.

Several years ago a skeleton was unearthed east of Sangre De Cristo Creek and east of the Shumate place, by workers for the irrigation district. The remains were along a steep rocky cliff and in a sitting position. The body was badly mutilated. Billy Hoagland examined the skeleton and found an arrow in the spine. He conjectures the victim was wounded by the arrow and crawled into a rocky crevice and died. Merle Smith unearthed the skeleton and also found a gun and sabre with the remains. A Conservation Engineer believes the bones were that of a Ute Indian.

TOBIN RANCH BURIALS

Located on Section 36, Township 30 South, Range 73 W, 6th P.M. (The ranch is one mile east and 2½ miles south of U.S. 160.)

Some people remember a small grave yard at the old Tobin ranch that was fenced by a pole fence, and they believe there were graves of some of the children of the ranch hands on the ranch. There is no evidence now of the graves and an irrigation ditch goes through the area.

ARROWHEAD BURIALS

Section 25, Township 29 South, Range 73 West, of the 6th P. M. (About five miles north of Blanca in an arroya southeast of the old Arrowhead House.)

The Hansens were plowing a field, and plowed up remnants of an Indian grave. The Indian was buried in a sitting position and an abalone shell was tied over his face with leather thongs. The skull was sent to the University of Illinois for study, but the results are not known.

It is believed there were some graves south and to the west of the Arrowhead ranches. (This is from a statement made by Edith Hansen, granddaughter-in-law of Peter Hansen.)

ARROWHEAD FOOTHILL BURIALS

Section same as above. Along the road about 4½ miles north of Blanca, angling to the northeast along the foothills, Al Vigil discovered a skeleton and skull and what could have been the site of two graves. Remains of what could have been settlers' buildings were also found. Mr. Vigil, who rode in the area when a young man, recalls that Indians camped here many times, so it is possible the remains were Indian.

JAROSO CEMETERY
(Aka/ Mountain View Cemetery)

LOCATION:

Section 25, Township 1 North, Range 12 East (or 74 West) depending on the map being used. The cemetery can be found one mile north of Main Street in Jaroso, on the east side of the road.

RECORDS:

The plat map and available records are in the care of Don Anderson, Postmaster of Jaroso.

HISTORY:

The Mountain View Cemetery Association was organized and the deed issued on August 29, 1916. Emma O. Hammond was the first president of the association and Gracie P. Green was the first secretary.

Although the San Luis Southern Railroad built its track and station at Jaroso in 1910, a town wasn't started until later. Until 1915 Jaroso had been only a station stop, but in 1915 the Shedd Investment Company of Omaha, Nebraska, started a well planned development area reserved for Seventh Day Adventists. The main street of Jaroso was called Costilla Avenue, and the Academy and Industrial Farm were included in the plans. The Industrial Farm consisted of 160 acres. Two large pit silos and a large barn were constructed. The Jaroso Academy was about a mile east of Jaroso and north of Conejos Avenue. About 75 students attended the Academy during its peak.

While the Seventh Day Adventist Church was being built in Jaroso, the residents would load students and teachers into a wagon and take them to Eastdale for religious services. They used the church owned by the Mormans.

During the golden days of Jaroso (1921-1923) there were four dry good stores, a blacksmith shop and garage. There were also two hotels, a bank, and a postoffice.

The last year of the Academy was 1925-1926. The church school remained until 1933, accommodating classes to the eighth grade.

Jaroso Cemetery

Jaroso is now more like an abandoned ghost town.

The cemetery is still in use. The first burial appears to be Jay Donald Chaffin in 1914, and one of the newest graves is that of Max West, husband of Virginia West, RE 11 J School District Nurse. Chaffin drowned in Eastdale while duck hunting. He was 18 years old.

Records indicate that Jaroso residents suffered from the Flu Epidemic during 1918-1919, as did residents throughout the San Luis Valley.

FINAL REPORT

SUMMARY OF PROJECT

The survey of cemeteries and burials in Alamosa and Costilla Counties has been completed by the Committee for the Collection of Historical Information About Cemeteries in the San Luis Valley in Colorado.

The project was funded initially in 1983 with a grant of $1500 from the Colorado Historical Society through its Local Assistance Program. That first year all cemeteries in Alamosa County were completed, except the City of Alamosa Cemetery, and about one-third of the cemeteries in Costilla County were completed.

In February of 1984 an additional grant for $1500 was approved and made it possible to complete the researching and recording for these two counties.

All cemeteries were surveyed and available information completed. In some instances in Costilla County, no records were available and the only information was gathered from markers in the cemetery. Residents in nearby areas were helpful and enthusiastic about the project.

Records for Alamosa County Cemeteries were for the most part available, however, a few gaps indicate a complete loss of records for a period of time. Alternate records were utilized when available.

Conditions of the cemeteries varied from exceptionally well taken care of to no care at all.

Adams State College provided the meeting room for the committee, photo facilities and control of the financial procedures and bookkeeping services for the grant.

A comprehensive history of each cemetery was compiled. Information for each burial was entered on 3 x 5 cards and assembled to be typed in alphabetical order. The histories, with the tabulations, were placed in three-ring notebooks. Photo proof sheets for each location were included in each notebook. A complete notebook will be available in the Colorado-San Luis Valley Room in the Library at Adams State College, in the Southern Peaks Library in Alamosa, and with each committee member. A set of the histories and proof sheets of photographs will be in the Colorado State Historical Library at the Colorado Heritage Center. A complete set of the records will be microfilmed in the Colorado State Archives and placed in that repository.

As work progressed on the cemeteries it became evident that a great deal of history is to be found through burial records. The information can be used as a stepping stone to events that are part of the building of the area.

Causes of death were not tabulated on the burial sheets, however, when known, the cause was entered on the reverse side of the file card for each individual. If in the future a demographic study of epidemics or diseases should be instigated, it would be very easy to retrieve this information.

The committee believes that all goals were achieved in collecting and compiling the cemetery information in these two counties and are proud to present the completed project at this time.

SAN LUIS NEW CATHOLIC CEMETERY

- LOCATION: Section 24, Township 3 North, Range 72 West, 1 mile east of San Luis via gravel road located at the foot of the hill where the Old San Luis Cemetery is located.
- RECORDS: The deed is recorded in Book 137, pg. 85 in the Costilla County Courthouse. It was deeded on June 28, 1930 by Delfino Salazar to be exclusively used for a Catholic Cemetery in memory of his wife, Freida.
- HISTORY: The old cemetery on the hill was getting filled and when his wife died Delfino Salazar donated land 860 feet by 840 feet and she was the first one buried there. There are some graves older than 1930 but these were removed from a family cemetery at the ranch of Ferdinand Meyer in Costilla, New Mexico.
- The well for the new cemetery was donated by Fred Herrman and Sons. Fred and his wife and several of his children are buried there.
- Around 1965 a cemetery association was formed to care for the cemetery.
- Pete Olivas and Lee Madrid have both kept records for the cemetery.
- The families of the Roman Catholic Church donated money so that a cinder block fence could be built around the plot and they installed a sprinkling system.
- The cemetery is very well kept and a beautiful cemetery whose graves are mostly well marked.

ALAMOSA MUNICIPAL (CITY) CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 15, Township 37 North, Range 10 East of the N.M.P.M.

RECORDS: Both City Hall and the Cemetery have burial records and property deeds. There are a few gaps but with much research 75% of the records are complete.

HISTORY:

After searching for a new location for a railroad stop, Alexander Cameron Hunt, President of the Denver and Rio Grande Construction Co., selected a site on the Rio Bravo, later to be called the Rio Grande. The railroad had reached Garland City in the summer of 1877, and would continue through the San Luis Valley at a later date.

The site chosen was already a stage stop and was centrally located for farming and mining purposes. The plat of the town was officially filed in May of 1878 under the name of Alamosa. The first train rolled in to Alamosa on June 22, 1878, loaded with buildings brought from the Garland City train stop. Complete buildings were carried on flat cars, and by evening most businesses were in operation. Incorporation of the City of Alamosa was in August of 1878.

As most of the buildings were cheaply constructed, fire was the town's biggest enemy. Each time a building was destroyed, a new brick building took its place. New buildings brought to town more people of means. These were the people responsible for the beginning of the Cemetery.

Before 1881 burials took place east of town in a sage brush covered area. The local businessmen felt it necessary to find a suitable location for their loved ones.

Following extensive planning, a location was selected southeast of Alamosa in a dry area away from the river. On Sept. 5, 1881 the cemetery became a reality. The original stockholders were Alva Adams, Charles Hayt, Harry Shiffer, John Certeisen, John McNeil, H. S. Easterday, W. R. Neale, William Sabine, F. Leher, and John Brophy.

The cemetery was mapped out in four sections. Each section was 310 feet by 310 feet. There were nine blocks measuring 70 feet by 70 feet in each section. In each block were sixteen 15 feet by 15 feet lots. Some lots were broken into eight burial spaces and were called single allotment graves. These were for the poor, people with no families and for infants. In one lot there is evidence of twelve infant graves.

In the far northeast area of the cemetery, was an area we call Pottersfield I. This was started in the late 1800s and by 1910 was filled with 117 graves. Until recently present-day cemetery staff wasn't aware of this area until a list of the burials was discovered in an old cemetery record book.

ALAMOSA MUNICIPAL CEMETERY

The first entrance to the cemetery was west of the old airport road. Wagonwheels were used as gate stops and are still visible. No reference has been found as to the date when the west entrance to the cemetery was constructed. In the far northeast of the cemetery was a stile for those who didn't care to drive through the cemetery.

Many of the rules and regulations of 1881 are still in effect. The most humorist of these rules applied to the care and tethering of the horses. Carriages could not be moved during the burial. The rule regarding prohibiting children or pets running wild still applies. Strict rules are still in effect in regards to the planting of trees, shrubs, and flowers. There have always been some restrictions on markers, and more are in the offing. With the use of power equipment in these modern days, certain types of markers are not allowed. Granite stones are permitted anywhere in the cemetery, but marble is allowed only in the veterans' sections.

Pilasters for a new gate were constructed in 1984. A time capsule has been placed in the north pilaster and contains copies of old records and pictures pertaining to the cemetery. No date has been set for the opening of the capsule. When the pilaster is removed a placque will help locate the capsule which will be opened at that time. A new wooden rail fence has been constructed running lengthwise north and south from the gate.

With the coming of the railroad many nationalities were added to the community. Most often these people were railroad workers and their families. "Ladies of the Evening" and Saloons were always part of a new town. Such was the case in Alamosa, especially along Front Street, later renamed Sixth Street. One lady called "China Pete", was the wife of a chinese laundryman, and gained her fame as a "Madam". Her grave is unmarked, but her memory still exists.

In May, 1923, the City of Alamosa assumed responsibility for the cemetery. Living quarters for the Sextant, and a garage were constructed. Possibly the entrance was changed from the east side of the cemetery at this time. More property was developed to the west and south of the old sections. Fraternal Orders bought sections of the new property and began to bury members in these lots. Eventually all of the new property except for the Knights of Columbus area were placed in the care of the city, but retained the right to exert some restriction in the burial rules. The old Knights of Columbus are now cared for by the city, but still hold the property deed, and sell their own lots. Burials in private plots like the Elks, Masons, Odd Fellows, Legion and V.F.W. must be approved by the organization. Only members, their spouses and dependent children may be buried in these plots. (Exception is made for the V.F.W. section to the extent that any military personnel and their families may be interred in this section.

Plans for permanent care of the cemetery have been discussed for a number of years, but were implemented in 1944. Blocks 13, 14, 15, 28, 29, and 30 were classed as "Old Perm Care", but following the death of Dr. Davlin, the later three blocks were renamed the Davlin section. This section had restrictions on markers. No double markers were permitted, and markers made of only red or brown granite were allowed. These rules are observed to date.

In the 1980s under the care of Earle Nicholas, underground watering systems were installed and all of the cemetery is classed as permanent care as of 1985.

According to military records, there are two Henry Smiths buried in Block Nine. One Henry Smith was born in Germany and fought with the Union Army. The other Henry Smith was a black soldier with the Regular Army after the Civil War. There is no way of knowing which is buried in each of the graves, because there are no markers. We question the black Henry Smith's burial in the G.A.R. section as all the other burials are Civil War Veterans, or their families. L. Charles Newton and Zebulon Clark are the only known veterans of the Spanish-American War. Their grave markers may be found in Section I.

There were Chinese, Japanese, many Italians and a few "Blacks" who moved into the area. There is only one Indian family known to have been a resident of Alamosa in the early days. Many of these families chose to remain in Alamosa, and have offspring still living in the area.

Before the coming of the railroad the population was basically Spanish, although soldiers mustered out of Ft. Garland used their military script to purchase land in the area. Interracial marriages were very common at this time.

The majority of these different nationalities have "loved ones" interred in the cemetery. According to records "China Pete" is the only Chinese burial in Alamosa. There are two small Japanese children, the Mori brothers, who perished in a fire. These children were not related to the present Japanese families. A young Indian boy named Clifford Crofeet passed away and is buried here rather than being sent back to his reservation, as was the usual custom.

In 1881 emigrants from Holland settled at the Willis Switch west of Alamosa. Crowded and unsanitary conditions caused an outbreak of diphtheria to spread rapidly through the settlement. Mrs. Ballast and nine emigrant children died from this dread disease and are buried in unmarked graves in Section II.

Although we have discovered Jewish people residing in the area, none of their burials have been located. It is possible they were buried in Trinidad, where the closest Synagogue is located. Alamosa has a few "blacks" whose ancestors came with the railroad. The majority of the original families followed the railroad as it moved out of the valley.

As previously stated, there are no Jewish burials and only one Chinese burial, but almost every other religious group is represented. The grave of Joel Seaman is marked by a nine pointed star, the symbol of the Ba Hai' faith.

There are numerous Japanese graves, both Christian and Buddhist. They are not in any specific area. Their markers are unique in the fact that many have Japanese inscriptions. A number of these burials have been moved from the Blanca, Colorado cemetery.

In the 1940s a baby section was platted. Small children up to the age of five or six may be buried in this section. Only single graves are permitted in each lot, except in the case of stillborn twins. An exception in the rule was made following the death of three small Atencio children, all victims of a house fire in Pueblo in 1953. In 1982 the west side of the section was set aside for the burial of Cremains.

The largest religious group buried in the cemetery seems to be Catholic. Many are located in various sections, as well as in the Knights of Columbus sections. Most of these graves are easily located because of religious articles placed on or around the marker. Many of the Catholic graves carry the Spanish surname.

Much of the Spanish heritage, is shown in their grave markings. Most of the Spanish speaking people are very devout in their religion and the cross is a very important symbol.

Very few Latter Day Saints are interred in Alamosa. Most of the people in this group have their own burial spots at Sanford and Manassa.

Military burials are common throughout the cemetery, as well as in the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars plots. War casualties were buried from the Vietnam and Korean Wars, and W. W. II. No veterans from wars prior to W.W. I were buried in this location.

In 1984 American Legion Blocks 12 and 31 were combined into one long section, separated only by a new flag pole. Ironically the two men, the Dickey Springer Post of the American Legion is named after, were not buried near the Legion plot. The graves of Russell Dickey and Paul Springer who were killed in the Argonne Forest in France during W. W. I are located in Section III.

The only section not permitting military stones is the Davlin section. Block nine of Section I was designated as the Grand Army of the Republic (G.A.R.) burial location. One unmarked grave contains the remains of an unknown Confederate Soldier who had previously been interred in a roadway. Unfortunately, most of the G.A.R. markers do not have a date of death, making it impossible to find more information about the veterans of the Civil War.

One especially interesting marker is placed on the grave of Wiley Foster King, a confederate soldier who came to the Valley from the south with the Morman migration. His marker resembles the other white military markers but comes to a slight point at the top, rather than having a rounded top. Below the top is the maltese cross instead of the Latin cross. This seems to be the standard form of the confederate marker, having compared it to other known confederate burials in the valley.

Wandering through the cemetery numerous types of markers are found. There are four different types of military markers. The most common is the white marble colonial type with the rounded top, seen in the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars plots. The bronze ledger type fits flush with the ground. There is a white marble and a gray granite type of marker that may lie flat on the ground, or be placed standing on the long side. These types of marker are common in the new Knights of Columbus and Husung sections.

The older sections of the cemetery have the obelisk or column markers with four flat sides allowing for more information or inscriptions than any other type of marker. Some obelisk markers have inscriptions for all of the members of the family, as seen on the Eckles marker in Section III.

The Tortine markers are obelisk and are the oldest markers in the cemetery. With a death date of 1880, Henry Tortine and his daughter, Jeanette, predate the organization of the cemetery. These graves were possibly moved to this cemetery from the East Alamosa Cemetery. This form of obelisk is fairly common throughout Southern Colorado.

The beveled marker is the only type of marker allowed in the Davlin section and is made from red or brown granite. The beveled side is highly polished and seems to endure adverse weather conditions. Beveled gray granite markers may be found in the Elks section. This section is restricted to the gray granite with the exception of military markers.

One of the advantages of having the beveled side of the marker is that the extra flat surface is more versatile. Such examples are seen in the hieroglyphics on Dr. Derrell Strong's marker in the Davlin section. Such markers as Watts, Asay, Petty, and Parker have family related pictures, and were designed by family members.

The basic form of the cross is the Latin cross used in the Crucifix and is often referred to as the "True Cross". If the Latin cross is constructed properly, the arms of the cross are the same length of the cross from the base of the shaft to the arm. The top shaft is one-half the length of the arm.

Other cross types commonly used are the "Botonee", which looks like it has a shamrock on each of four points. The Fleur-de-Lys has a flower on each point. Examples of these crosses may be found throughout the cemetery. The maltese cross is also quite common.

Other markers like the Day, Maddux and Riddle markers are called monolithic and may have either just the family name or the name of all the family members buried in the lot. Other good examples of the monolithic markers are the Sumida markers in the Husung section. Massive in size, one is black granite, the other red granite. Often these types of markers are called screens and allow the mourners privacy.

Statues of Mary and Jesus are very common in Catholic burials, and may be either on grave markers or near them. Also the Rosary or Crucifix are used on the marker. One interesting Catholic marker is on the grave of Gordon McCurry. It consists of molded brass figures mounted on a marble backing. On the back of the stone is the name Frioli and the city, Roma. Probably the most unusual statue is the "Lady Emperius" who is located in the northeast corner of the cemetery where she appears to be watching over the dead. The statue is said to have been imported from Italy in the early 1900s, for a purchase price of $1,500.00. The lady is carved in white marble and stands on a gray pedestal. Engraved in the base is the death date, Oct. 36, 1913 for Wilhelmina Becker. The error is blamed on mosquitos bothering the engravers, but mosquitos are usually gone by October.

The only true pedestal type of marker is in the Henry Dorris lot and is about five feet tall. Larger at the base than at the top, there is room for a long inscription on each side. The marker is for two little brothers who died a year apart.

There are a few column markers, but for some reason they have not been very popular. The familiar column marker usually has a large arm at the top, but the few in the Alamosa Cemetery have a large orb or ball. One example of this would be the Jermey marker in Section II. Standing stately on a corner of Block III, Section III, is the Peter Hansen Mausoleum erected after the death of Mr. Hansen in 1913. Mr. Hansen was a Civil War Veteran and a local cattle rancher. The Mausoleum was constructed to hold the remains of six people. By the year 1920, the remains of Peter Hansen, his wife and two spinster daughters had been placed in four of the vaults. The remaining two vaults were not used until the death of William and Charles Jones, great grandsons of Peter Hansen.

The Mausoleum was erected by Anderson Hamil Contractors of Pueblo. Constructed of native stone, the back side has a small stained glass window protected by metal bars. The door is a marble slab with brass hinges and door pull.

James A. Richardson's cast iron marker is the only commercial all metal marker in the cemetery. Lengthwise over the grave is a matching cast iron planter.

Several birdbaths are found in the older part of the cemetery. Although they are more commonly used in formal gardens, they are also used as memorials to people who "loved their feathered friends of the sky". Whether the birdbath was plain or ornate, it still had one purpose of supplying water for the birds.

The Neighbors of the Woodcraft, and the Woodmen of the World have some of the most interesting markers in the cemetery. Many are large sandstone tree trunks standing in an upright position. There are a few sandstone logs, also. All are decorated with oak leaves, doves, mallets and wedges. Some have squirrels and maple leaves. A good example of the tree stump marks the grave of Charles Emerson. This may be seen in Section I. One good example of a log is the Anderson marker in Section II. The letters in the name look as if they were formed with small twigs.

Different types of urns are scattered throughout the cemetery. Some are used as planters, while others are for cut flowers, and have lids to cover them in the winter. This is to keep out the moisture, and to prevent the cracking of the urn from freezing.

The erecting of homemade markers is prohibited now, but in earlier days of the cemetery many of the markers were fashioned out of cement, metal or wood. Many of the older blocks in the cemetery contain examples of these markers.

The most unique of all markers is made of metal. The marker of Ester Esquer consists of a cross made from iron pipe. This is welded to a rectangular base, horseshoe shaped at the top. On the base is the name and date of death in weld beading.

Cement was used in many homemade markers. In Block 10 is the cement marker belonging to Richard Modesto Valdez. The marker is a standing concrete slab. The impression of a maltese cross can be seen on the back side of the stone. The grave side is decorated by bright colored marbles.

Homemade cement markers are also found in the baby section. Two are horseshoe shaped and resemble small grottos. The inset in one is a Crucifix, and the other contains a replica of the head of Mary and Jesus. Marbles are used on these markers also.

The construction of one cement cross is quite visible. The outline of the cross is made of bundles of re-bar secured in cement. The cross is then wrapped in chicken wire. This is then covered by a layer of cement stucco. Some of the crosses have full names and dates and some of the others have initials and partial dates.

At one time there were many wooden crosses. Many have become rotten and have fallen by the way side. Several of the crosses still standing belong to the Trujillo family.

Three old pillar type markers are located in Section I. These appear to be reddish-brown sandstone, but on closer inspection they are found to be handmade. Since one of the brick yards was near the cemetery, it is possible the grave markers were made here. Appearances would suggest these were made in a mold.

People from all walks of life have been laid to rest in our peaceful cemetery and we are proud to say it is one of the nicest cemeteries in the southern part of the state.

THE ABEL VIGIL CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 12, Township 2 North, Range 72 West.

RECORDS: None located.

HISTORY:

The Abel Vigil Ranch is located at the edge of San Pablo. The family cemetery is located at the edge of a field at the foot of some rolling hills.

It is believed that the Vigils were one of the first families to break with the Catholic Church when the Presbyterian missionaries came. When they had the first death in the family, they did not want to bury in the Catholic Plot, and since there was no Protestant Plot, they started a cemetery of their own.

There are six graves with a fence around them. Abel Vigil's grandfather and grandmother; his older brother and sister; and two small babies, a brother and a cousin. The older brother and sister died in 1918 during the flu epidemic. The rest of the Vigils are buried in the Presbyterian Plot at San Pablo.

CHAMA OLD CATHOLIC CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 5, Range 71 West, Township 2 North (across the Culebra south of Chama, 1/2 mile from Chama Post Office).

RECORDS: None found.

HISTORY: To reach this cemetery, you used to go past a Penitente Morada. The first burial appears to be in 1901. There are many burials in 1918 and an early settler recalls that many died during the flu epidemic. The Segura family - Maria, 55; Jose, 23; Abel, 20; Epimenio, 51; and Anita, 12, died in November of 1918 within two weeks. Jose Ramon's name is spelled "Cegura".

A Jewish refugee orphan from Germany by the name of Frank Scott is buried here. He and another refugee, Charlie Kaber, escaped from Germany and came to New York and then to the San Luis Valley. Scott was adopted by Ramon Lucero, but retained his original name. He was born in 1899, and died in 1928.

FT. GARLAND NEW CATHOLIC CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 20, Township 30 South, Range 72 West of the 6th P.M. in Costilla County, Colorado (two and one-half miles east of Blanca on Highway 160, south of the highway).

RECORDS: None located.

HISTORY:

In about 1948 the Hillside and Spring Creek Cemeteries were filling up so that when they dug the graves, very often they would dig up bones from unmarked graves.

The Costilla County Commissioners donated 25 or 30 acres to be used as a cemetery.

This cemetery is unique in that most of the graves are buried north and south.

FT. GARLAND PRESBYTERIAN CEMETERY
AKA/ FORT CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 22, Range 72 West, Township 30 South, about 300 yards east of the Highway 159 and Old Ft. Garland.

RECORDS: None located.

HISTORY:

The cemetery was started around 1920. First marked burials were in 1920. One was Walter Emmitt Henderson, a sixteen year old boy who was accidently shot while sitting on a bridge. The other, Mary Meder, was the wife of Henry Meder who served as musician at the fort. Her parents were immigrants from Poland.

After Henry Meder was mustered out of the Military Service, he and his wife ran the officers' mess hall. He also worked for the railroad, carried mail, and bought a small farm on the Creek, west of the Fort. He died on May 17, 1930.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor William H. Meyer donated the property for the Cemetery. Mr. Meyers was born in Hanover, Germany, April 14, 1847, immigrated to America in 1861 and settled in the San Luis Valley in 1866. He was elected as Lieutenant Governor of Colorado in 1882. He is buried in this cemetery, but ironically has no marker and date of death has not been established.

Original directors of the Ft. Garland Cemetery were Charles Robinson, Ed Brennaman and William Hoagland, Jr. William Hoagland, Sr. and his brother, George Hoagland, bought the Ferd Meyer store in Ft. Garland in 1910, and their descendants run the post commissary at the Fort at this time (1985).

The Brennaman families were pioneers who came to the Valley from Pennsylvania, Ed's father and mother were John and Nancy, who are buried at the Ed Brennaman Cemetery south of Ft. Garland.

After the original directors passed away, members of their families took their place. These family members have since died and as far as could be determined, there is no cemetery committee.

GARLAND CITY CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 4, Township 30 South, Range 71 West. Two miles east of Fort Garland on Hwy 160. Turn right on Trinchera Ranch road for about one mile. Turn left on Beekman Road for about 4 miles. The cemetery is located on a knoll east of road.

RECORDS: None found.

HISTORY: William J. Palmer of Denver and Rio Grande fame built a line to Pueblo and in 1877 extended it to Garland City. A settlement sprang up at the end of the railroad. The next spring the railroad continued into Alamosa, reaching there July 4, 1878.

There is a small cemetery on a hill above the settlement. In 1971, there were six graves fenced and marked, and approximately seven or eight more graves. In 1984, there was only one readable gravestone. There were five broken down fences and one open pit.

One oldtimer remembered the person who had been buried where the open pit was. He was a 22-year old young man who was killed by mistake when a holdup man believed he was the man carrying the payroll, and shot him. His friends buried him and placed a headstone with painstakingly carved name and details of his death and put a picket fence around it. Relatives from Delaware later removed the body, headstone and fence and took them to Delaware, leaving the open pit.

Two old timers remembered five Etter children died and were buried at Garland City. Fred Etter was a soldier at Fort Garland who married a Navajo Indian girl, a servant of the Gallegos' family. Mr. Gallegos had given the newlyweds some cattle and range land near Garland City. The cemetery is in very bad shape and probably will disappear in time.

JAROSO CEMETERY
(Aka/ Mountain View Cemetery)

LOCATION:

Section 25, Township 1 North, Range 12 East (or 74 West) depending on the map being used. The cemetery can be found one mile north of Main Street in Jaroso, on the east side of the road.

RECORDS:

The plat map and available records are in the care of Don Anderson, Postmaster of Jaroso.

HISTORY:

The Mountain View Cemetery Association was organized and the deed issued on August 29, 1916. Emma O. Hammond was the first president of the association and Gracie P. Green was the first secretary.

Although the San Luis Southern Railroad built its track and station at Jaroso in 1910, a town wasn't started until later. Until 1915 Jaroso had been only a station stop, but in 1915 the Shedd Investment Company of Omaha, Nebraska, started a well planned development area reserved for Seventh Day Adventists. The main street of Jaroso was called Costilla Avenue, and the Academy and Industrial Farm were included in the plans. The Industrial Farm consisted of 160 acres. Two large pit silos and a large barn were constructed. The Jaroso Academy was about a mile east of Jaroso and north of Conejos Avenue. About 75 students attended the Academy during its peak.

While the Seventh Day Adventist Church was being built in Jaroso, the residents would load students and teachers into a wagon and take them to Eastdale for religious services. They used the church owned by the Mormans.

During the golden days of Jaroso (1921-1923) there were four dry good stores, a blacksmith shop and garage. There were also two hotels, a bank, and a postoffice.

The last year of the Academy was 1925-1926. The church school remained until 1933, accommodating classes to the eighth grade.

RUSSELL CEMETERY
aka/ Placer Cemetery

LOCATION: Section 1, Township 29 South, Range 71 West. 12 miles east of Fort Garland on highway 160 across from the buildings left at Russell on a hill.

RECORDS: None available.

HISTORY: In about 1869 there was mining excitement in the Grayback area and the settlement of Placer sprang up. The mining did not prove out so the town declined but when the railroad went through in 1877 and 1878, it grew again. Because Colorado already had a town called Placerville, the post-office was changed to Russell.

The cemetery was fenced by the Trinchera Ranch. One old-timer remembers a Stough baby was buried here, although it is unmarked.

There are about 25 unmarked distinguishable graves.

One settler recalls two burials about 100 yards from the cemetery because the cemetery could not be reached in mid-winter.

OLD SAN ACACIO CHURCHYARD CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 24, Township 3 North, Range 73 West. On the Old San Acacio town plat the location is Lot Number 26. The Cemetery is one and one-half miles northwest of Highway 159.

RECORDS: There are no records of the burials in the cemetery, but the deed to the Church and Yard property was filed in the office of the San Luis Valley Title Company in San Luis, Colorado.

HISTORY: The old town of San Acacio was settled in 1852. The Church was built in 1853, but there are no marked burials before 1906. It is probable that some of the unmarked graves in the courtyard are those who died between 1853 and 1906.

The village of San Acacio is named after Saint Acacius, a soldier who was sainted because of his Christian deeds. The old church is one of the oldest in the state with the original building still intact. The villagers keep the church in good repair. The statue of St. Acacius is particularly beautiful.

The cemetery located east of the church contains for the most part homemade cement markers, however, there are several tombstones and some field stones.

Further information on the history of San Acacio may be obtained in the Legend of the "Miracle of San Acacio" in Luther Bean's Land of the Blue Sky People.

OLD SAN ACACIO (MESA) CEMETERY
aka/ NEW SAN ACACIO CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 25, Township 3 North, Range 73 West of the 6th P.M. in Costilla County, Colorado. This cemetery is located one mile south of Viejo San Acacio, or three miles west of San Luis on Highway 159, then right northwest for one miles.

RECORDS: None located.

HISTORY:

When the churchyard cemetery at Old San Acacio became full in about 1936, it became necessary to find a new location. The new cemetery is on a rise south of San Acacio in a large fenced in area.

The graves predate 1936. One marker carries the death date of 1906 and one 1917. A local resident stated there were two bodies exhumed from the churchyard cemetery, and reburied here.

Within the cemetery is a large fenced lot for the Lobato family. In this lot the graves are facing east and west. The rest of the graves in the cemetery face south. There are also over twenty unmarked and unknown graves.

SAN ISIDRO CEMETERY
aka/ Vallejos Cemetery

LOCATION: Section 17, Range 71 West, Township 2 North. (8 miles southeast of San Luis on State Road 242 and left on graveled road up the Vallejos Creek, and 300 yards north of that road and located on a hill).

RECORDS: The deed for this cemetery was recorded in the Costilla County Courthouse in Book 78, Page 358, on April 12, 1915, by J. M. Pacheco.

HISTORY: The Catholic Church in Los Fuertes is named San Isidro after St. Isidoro, the patron saint of the village. Some of the residents call the area Vallejos after the creek running through the village and others claim the name is Los Fuertes, so they use the names interchangeably.

The cemetery used by the San Isidro Church we'll label the San Isidro Cemetery. The San Pablo Presbyterian Church Cemetery is connected, but divided by a fence.

The San Isidro Cemetery's oldest stone is a wooden cross carved by hand and dated 1911. However, two Civil War veterans are listed in the Veterans' Records as having been buried in the Vallejos Cemetery - one, Marcelino Roybal, died in 1909; the other - Felix Lopez, has no other information except that he was a private in the third regiment in the U. S. colored infantry.

OLD SAN LUIS CATHOLIC CEMETERY

- LOCATION: Section 14, Township 3 North, Range 72 West, 1¼ miles east of San Luis via gravel road located on brow of hill over-looking the New Catholic Cemetery.
- RECORDS: The deed is recorded in the courthouse. It was deeded on July 11, 1914 to Rev. J. S. Garcia, Catholic Priest of San Luis, Colorado, and his successors to be used and occupied as a burying ground for the people of San Luis, Colorado, for those of the Catholic faith, by William H. Meyer, S. N. Smith, J. M. Pacheco and Francisco A. Barela.
- HISTORY: Because the earliest grave in this cemetery is 1869 and the settlement was started in 1851, it is believed there was an earlier cemetery. One pioneer remembers his grandfather telling of burying two of his children where the Phillips 66 Station is now located in San Luis. He believed the bodies were later moved to this cemetery.
- The earliest grave was that of Charles Meyer, son of William H. and Melita Meyer, who are also buried here and one of the men who deeded the land for the cemetery.
- One of those buried in this cemetery is Jose Dario Gallegos, born in 1830 and died in 1883, who owned the oldest mercantile business in San Luis. It is the oldest mercantile business in continuous operation in the state of Colorado. His daughter, Genoveva, married A. A. Salazar and they continued operating the business. Gallegos and his wife and Salazar and his wife and several other relatives are buried in this cemetery. Gallegos also donated a small chapel which was located about thirty yards southwest of the present Catholic Church. Two other owners of mercantile stores are buried here. Louis Cohn, born in Breslan, Prussia in 1837, and J.M. Olquin were both merchandise store owners.
- There are many iron fences - some quite elaborate - here and many weatherworn wooden crosses and fences. Many of the older gravestones are hand carved natural stone - some quite intricate.

SAN LUIS NEW CATHOLIC CEMETERY

LOCATION: Section 24, Township 3 North, Range 72 West, 1 mile east of San Luis via gravel road located at the foot of the hill where the Old San Luis Cemetery is located.

RECORDS: The deed is recorded in Book 137, pg. 85 in the Costilla County Courthouse. It was deeded on June 28, 1930 by Delfino Salazar to be exclusively used for a Catholic Cemetery in memory of his wife, Freida.

HISTORY: The old cemetery on the hill was getting filled and when his wife died Delfino Salazar donated land 860 feet by 840 feet and she was the first one buried there. There are some graves older than 1930 but these were removed from a family cemetery at the ranch of Ferdinand Meyer in Costilla, New Mexico.

The well for the new cemetery was donated by Fred Herrman and Sons. Fred and his wife and several of his children are buried there.

Around 1965 a cemetery association was formed to care for the cemetery.

Pete Olivas and Lee Madrid have both kept records for the cemetery.

The families of the Roman Catholic Church donated money so that a cinder block fence could be built around the plot and they installed a sprinkling system.

The cemetery is very well kept and a beautiful cemetery whose graves are mostly well marked.

SAN PABLO CATHOLIC CEMETERY

LOCATION:

Section 30, Township 2 North, Range 71 West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, in Costilla County. (2½ miles southeast of San Luis on a graveled road, or one mile northeast of the intersection of Colorado 152 and 242.)

RECORDS:

The deed was recorded at the Costilla County Courthouse on July 11, 1914. It was deeded by William H. Meyer, S. N. Smith, J. M. Pacheco and Francisco A. Barela, to Rev. J. S. Garcia, Catholic Priest of San Luis, Colorado (and his successors). Trustee for the Catholic Church of San Pedro, CO, to be used and occupied as a burying ground.

HISTORY:

One of the early settlements of Colorado was San Pedro, located across the river from San Pablo. Sometimes even the residents seem confused about where San Pedro starts and San Pablo leaves. There was an old cemetery located on the land where Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Manzanares built their house because they dug up many graves when building their house.

To the east of this, several residents claim there was a cemetery across from the Havana Night Club. It is believed that when the highway was oiled, most of the bodies were moved to the San Pedro Cemetery located north on the brow of the hill.

This cemetery is divided into two parts. The north section is the Catholic Cemetery and the south section, the Protestant side.

The earliest burial in the Catholic side is that of Juan Cristoval in 1882. The earliest Protestant burial is Ursulita M. Roybal in 1961.

The alphabetical listing of burials will be divided into Catholic and Protestant.

SAN PABLO PRESBYTERIAN CEMETERY

- LOCATION: Section 17, Township 2 North, Range 71 West (8 miles southeast of San Luis on State Road 242 and left on graveled road up the Vallejos Creek and 300 yards north of said road located on a hill.)
- RECORDS: The deed was recorded on May 15, 1940, from The Costilla Land Company, to the San Pablo Presbyterian Church.
- HISTORY: The Presbyterian Church has been active in San Pablo since 1889, when missionaries settled here to minister to the villagers. Most of the early settlers buried their loved ones in family plots which accounts for the earliest lone burial in this cemetery being 1915 and one other burial in 1925.

SIERRA CEMETERY

- LOCATION: Section 19, Range 70 West, Township 29, South. (This cemetery is located 10 miles northeast of Ft. Garland on Highway 160; then 2½ miles east on the Forbes Park Road, across the road from the old Sierra railroad water tower and on the hill behind the Forbes Park Sales office.
- RECORDS: None
- HISTORY: When the railroad was built over Veta Pass (not La Veta) a settlement called Sierra sprung up where the train stopped at the water tank. It had a lumber mill and section house. There was a cemetery there and a fenced cemetery with graves still remains, although none are marked. One pioneer remembered that William Etter, the son of Fred Etter and his Navajo wife, was buried here along with some Langdon children and some of the workers' children. Fred Etter was a soldier who had been discharged from Ft. Garland. He had married a Navajo Indian girl who was a servant for Mr. Gallegos.
- Mr. Gallegos gave the newlyweds some range cattle and land close to Garland City.

SPRING CREEK CEMETERY
aka/ Billy Meyer Cemetery

LOCATION: Section 17, Range 72 West, Township 30 South (1 mile west of Fort Garland on Highway 160 and 1/2 mile north of Highway 160).

RECORDS: None

HISTORY: This cemetery is located at the foot of the mesa and much closer to Fort Garland than the MacMullan or Hillside Cemetery. One pioneer believes it was started after Hillside because in winter Hillside was difficult to reach, and in summer the roads washed out during rain storms. The earliest marked grave is 1909 and there is only one in the sixties and one in the eighties, so most of the burials are in the twenties, thirties and forties.

The cemetery is not maintained and many graves have sunk and are in poor condition.
